The Rebel Sympathizing Democracy

One thing has been demonstrated in these early months of Democratic Administration, and so clearly that it will hardly be disputed hereafter, and that is the fact that the sympathies of the Democratic party are still with those who tried to destroy the Union rather than those who sought to preserve it. All the shallow pretense that is sometimes paraded in the false claim that there were more Democrats than Republicans in the Union armies, vanishes when it is observed that the sympathies of the Democratic party are to-day as unmistakably with the State-Rights, negro-hating, nullifying Bourbonism of the South as they were in the days of Sumter, Andersonville, Gettysburg and to the end. In every great issue Democracy has been in favor of Southern disloyalty and against the United States, and it is just so to-day. The fact has been denied and over and over again it has been asserted that the advent of the Democratic party to power would prove that the charges of its rebel sympathizing were unfounded. But the whole tendency of the appointments by this Administration, from the Cabinet and Diplomatic selections down through the civil list, has been to bring out in more and more bold relief the affinity of the Democratic party with the men who have most bitterly hated and most desperately sought the destruction of the United States, and who adhere tenaciously to-day to the dogmas and doctrines that drenched the land with blood, and carried desolation to so many loyal homes.

One day it crops out in the lowering of the National Flag to honor the memory of a traitor who resorted to barbarous and fiendish warfare against his country; then New England patriotism is outraged by the appointment of the venomous Copperhead Pillsbury to Federal office; again it is shown in the appointment of an instigator of the Copiah assassination to a postmastership; and the wisdom of the selection is not altered by the fact that public indignation compelled a withdrawal of the commission; then we see the same spirit dictating the determination to force a blatant Virginia rebel upon some reluctant foreign government as Envoy; and the attempt of an ex-Rebel Attorney General to set aside one of the great War Amendments in order to render another unrepentant ex-Rebel who had violated his oath of fealty to the United States to represent the preserved Nation at the court of Russia; and so on, until we find the newly appointed Democratic Pension Agent in Philadelphia turning two-handed Union soldiers out of his clerkship to make room for an ex-Confederate reeking with the poison of disloyalty, and the defiant author of a book in which the cause of loyalty and its greatest leaders were insulted and traduced. This in the State that was invaded by the armies of treason, the State whose soil has been made doubly sacred by the blood poured out at Gettysburg and by Lincoln's immortal dedication of that resting place of patriot heroes.

The people of this great Nation are looking on, and they understand the meaning of all this. They see Democracy working out its natural election, and they will have something to say when the proper time comes. Just now the Confederacy seems to be the top as its champions boast, but this Democratic experiment has refreshed the public memory in regard to that party and its alliances, and when we next get an expression of the popular sentiment it will be found to declare in favor of the United States by a large majority.

"Birds of a Feather"

How naturally the leanings of Democracy toward the open enemies of the country and to the copperheads and cowards of the struggle are developing from day to day. While the papers are still quoting the scandalously disloyal expressions of the ex-Confederate appointed the other day by the new Democratic Pension Agent in Philadelphia to displace a wounded Union soldier, there comes a protest from Ohio against the appointment of Gilbert H. Barger, as U. S. Pension Agent at Columbus, on the ground that he was dishonorably dismissed the service for a cowardly desertion of his company. His Division Commander stating "Capt. Barger left the field of battle while under fire, dishonorably making use of his leave of absence, and deserted his regiment while it was actually engaged with the enemy." With such credentials we are not surprised to learn that Barger is Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee of Ohio, or that he was selected by this "Reform" Administration to be rewarded by an office rendered necessary by the valor and devotion of a different kind of man.

John Roach's Assignment.

Our despatches announce that the celebrated shipbuilders John Roach & Sons, have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. In the absence of details it is a natural inference that this step has been compelled by the extraordinary attitude of the Government as represented by the Secretary of the Navy and the Attorney General, who have proposed to repudiate entirely the contracts under which Messrs. Roach & Sons have been engaged in constructing three expensive war vessels, the Chicago, of 4,500 tons, the Boston, of 3,000 tons, and the Dolphin, of 1,500 tons, to cost nearly two millions of dollars. Of these the Dolphin is completed, the Boston was launched last February and is having her machinery fitted and the great steel cruiser Chicago is in an advanced stage of construction upon the stocks. A firm that could carry such enormous enterprises as those, in the face of the threat of the Government to repudiate its contracts and refuse to pay for the vessels built under its authority and supervision, would need uncounted millions of assets, and it is no wonder that Roach & Sons have had to seek protection for their creditors in view of the Administration's manifest attempt to crush them. The public will keenly watch the development of this crusade against a house who have built up a great American iron and steel shipbuilding industry and done so much to keep the United States flag afloat.

The Boston Journal says: "The New York Evening Post is of the opinion that ex-Secretary Chandler's letter is 'highly indecorous,' but it sees no indecorum in addressing the ex-Secretary, in its leading editorial, as 'Mr. Bill Chandler.' The Post is almost as amusing as a judge of decorum as it is as a censor of morals."

The Maine Offices

[Special Despatch to the Boston Journal]

WASHINGTON, July 17. The Maine Democrats here are divided in sentiment as to the appointment of Bird to be District Attorney. Some of them claim that of the three candidates—Bird, Varney and Gage—Varney was the best qualified and the most popular man. They assert that his papers were strongest, and that the sentiment of the Bench and Bar of the State was in his favor. But the President stated that he had been advised not to go to Bangor for his candidate, and decided not to do so. Bird's principal allies were Claves and Swift, and it was claimed for him that he represented a good element of Maine's Democracy, and is well qualified.

Edmund Wilson visited the White House and departments to-day. In his interview with the President he gave his views as to a number of the Collectorships and Post Offices, and suggested the propriety of paying more attention to Maine matters. He learned that, although the Augusta Post Office, the Portland Collectorship and some of the other offices have received a good deal of attention, no decisions have been reached. The President has no specific policy in regard to these offices. Which he is, are he has a good and acceptable man for an office, Mr. Wilson thinks, he will appoint him without reference to anything else. He infers that the Augusta Post Office is far from being settled and that the President has his own reasons for letting the matter await future developments. As to the other offices, he thinks the President could make up his mind promptly if appealed to from a source to which he wished to give attention. Wilson will return to Maine.

The Ohio Outlook

Murat Halstead, the breezy editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, was interviewed in New York by the Tribune a few days ago, and in reply to a question as to the outlook in Ohio, said:

"We shall have the State Convention, any further probabilities. It is some what early to talk. The Republicans are in the field. The Democrats are not. They have no avowed principles, no policy, no candidates. They don't know whether they are an Administration party or not. There are two big factions among them. Each threatens to knife the other. They talk of Converse, Hoadly, Geddes, Hurd and Durbin for Governor. Hurd is being run forward because that would make the fight on free trade. The Kids have a notion that Thurman wants his throat cut again. They have cut it annually for a dozen straight years in succession, each time with a blunter and more cruel knife. This time they want to do it with a shovel plough. There is no little questioning among Hoadly's friends whether his miscellaneous distribution of cash at the State dinner has not hurt him. He turned the dinner into a Democratic mass-meeting to rally and approve the appointment of General Noyes, totally and wholly ignoring the eternal gratitude of that great man and good soldier, S. F. Hildebrand. All these things caused the Democracy to contemplate deeply whether the startling brilliancy of Hoadly is just what is wanted in a modern caveat.

What are the Democrats going to do? Oh, they will get together after a while, make a platform that dodges everything—the Administration, Civil Service reform and so on—nominate a ticket and then try to run a dodging campaign. It is hip and thigh whether a Democrat at present indorses the Administration or not. You get three drinks in him and he cusses Cleveland in private. You get five drinks in him and he cusses Cleveland in public. With six drinks he is willing to vote the Prohibition ticket to get even with the man in the White House. But when he sobers down he becomes sad and recognizes that it is too bad to say anything ill of the first Democratic Administration in twenty-four years in the first six months of its existence. But to return to Ohio—we shall beat them there. Dr. Leonard can deliver according to programme. There are over 1,000 Methodist clergymen in Ohio. He is only one. He stumped for St. John last fall. St. John came back this year for $100 and renominated by nominating Leonard for Governor. One reason why we shall carry Ohio is because it is a National contest, made so by the United States Senatorship pending. If the Republicans lose Ohio in the Senate, it will signify the delivery of the Senate itself, the last of the keys to the Democratic party."

The Point Mr Garland Omitted

[Philadelphia Bulletin]

There is one point against Mr. Roach which the Attorney General fails to make in his elaborate discussion of the Dolphin. He omits to refer to the fact that Mr. Roach is an offensive partisan, a circumstance which has an important bearing upon the case. Mr. Roach is a Republican and his great shipyard at Chester has been filled with thousands of men intimately acquainted with the buttered side of their bread. Like all intelligent American mechanics these men believe in protecting American industry, and are sturdily opposed to the pernicious tendencies of the free trade Democracy. Such offensive partisanship as this would spoil the swiftest and staunchest ship that ever floated and is quite enough to condemn the Dolphin in the eyes of Messrs. Whitney and Garland.

Chairman Brown's office-brokerage seems to have got into working order, and quite a number of Republican postmasters in this section were removed on Friday to give place to Democrats. Even George William Curtis and Tom Nast ought to appreciate the edifying spectacle of a chairman of a Democratic State Committee opening an office in Washington and advertising that he is conducting a brokerage in public patronage. Harper's Weekly ought to publish a portrait of Mr. Brown as a typical "Reformer."

It was reported a short time ago that a protest, quite numerously signed by Democrats of longer party record, had been sent from here to the President remonstrating against the influence alleged to be exerted by Mr. Bass in regard to patronage. The result of the contest for the District Attorneyship would seem to indicate that the protest had been received and acted upon, as Mr. Bass fully expected that Mr. Varney would be appointed, but instead of that the place has been given to Bird, of Portland. It looks as if Mr. Varney's naturally strong candidacy had been handicapped by the fact of Mr. Bass's championship, as a Washington despatch says "the President stated he had been advised not to go to Bangor for his candidate."

Mr. John Roach is going to Washington at once to have a conference with Secretary Whitney concerning the Dolphin. In this connection it is well to note the fact that Secretary Whitney has not yet made public the report of the Naval Advisory Board. It is asserted that he is waiting until he has time to read it, but he permitted a very short time to elapse before giving out the report of his own Examining Board which he notoriously read but prepared a long letter giving his interpretation of the same. Secretary Whitney is trying to run a very one sided so called investigation, but he will learn to his sorrow one of these days that the people believe in fair treatment and mean to have the whole truth of this attack upon Mr. Roach before they have done with the matter.

The Boston Post heads the announcement that the Providence Journal is to issue a Sunday edition, "Republicanism Tottering," because the change is made "to aid in keeping Rhode Island in the Republican column." At the last election in a total vote of 33,771 Mr. Blaine had a majority over all of 3,289. The "fool killer" should be turned loose in the Post office.

In a talk the other day about Ohio politics, ex-Congressman Amos Townsend, of Cleveland, said that Ohio Republicans are giving much attention to making nominations for county officers and members of the Legislature, in order that the party may have no weak points in its line of battle this year. This is what should be done everywhere.

This story was recently published that the grave of Maine's first Governor, "Cyrus King," was located in a pasture in Scarboro in a dilapidated condition, but the Bath Times explodes the sensation as follows: "Gov. King's christian name, our readers do not need to be told, was William—not Cyrus. He lived, died and was buried in Bath, not in Scarboro. His grave, instead of being a neglected mound in a pasture, is on the most elevated point in Maple Grove Cemetery, and is marked by a massive granite monument, erected by the State of Maine."

As rewarding disloyalty seems to be the order of the day at Washington it is not surprising to learn that the most prominent candidate for the post-office in Joliet, Ill., is a Democratic editor who in 1861 published the following paragraph in his paper: "We understand that the Black Republican artillery company at Plainfield are drilling for service. They are making ready to go down South to subdue the Southern people. Well, let them go, but on their journey they should avoid passing by the way this city for fear that they and their cannon might be quickly into the river."

A few days since Mr. Bass had a fling in his paper about Chairman Brown and now in reply to the query "are the brethren growing out of one another?" the Democratic editor of the Fairfield Journal says:

"Oh no; the close time for Bass was off July 4, and for him simply consisted of the retirement enforced by the last State Convention when he was a candidate for National delegate. The influence of Brother Bass is no greater quantity now than it was that occasion. Like all other varieties of fresh water fish, Joseph has his warmy spells in the summer time. The Maine Democrats are not dwelling in unity just at present."

Perhaps Mr. Willart, of Cincinnati, one of the officers of the Ohio Republican State Committee, in speaking of the municipal and County elections in that State to-day said: "Republicans in Ohio have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the indications of victory this Autumn. The tickets in the field, or rather the men who some times will appear upon the tickets are persons who are not politicians in the sense of the word. They are business men whose names are the synonym of success. A large number of Democrats who are disconcerted with the President are publicly joining the Republican party in these elections, and we can not fail to win, in any possibility, fair."

The Democratic reformers are still busy turning honest men out of office and inserting the rascals in. A week or two ago John Wunder was appointed postmaster at Peoria, Ill. The office is one of the most important in the State. It pays $3,000 a year. It is regarded by the politicians of the State as one of the great fellows of prizes. There was a sharp competition for the place. A great many capable Democrats contended for it. The worst man, it seems, won. John Wunder, according to papers received at Washington, was indicted in 1870 by the Grand Jury for the Southern District of Illinois, sitting at Springfield, for conspiring to defraud, in August, 1874, the Government of its revenue stamps from casks and packages of distilled spirits, and using such stamps again on other casks and packages. In this indictment Wunder pleaded in January, 1880 the statute of limitations. He escaped punishment. Another part of his record is that he was dismissed from the military service in March, 1864, as the records of the Adjutant-General's office show, for drawing more rations than there were men in his company after swearing to the correctness of his requisitions. Authenticated transcripts from the official records covering these transactions have been received here and will be placed before the Senate next winter. It is not likely that Mr. Wunder will be confirmed, especially in view of the fact that an efficient and conscientious postmaster, Colonel Cockle, was removed to make room for this shining example of Democratic reform.

A GOOD TREASURER.

Providence is irreverently said to stand on the side of the heaviest guns. This is no more true now than in the olden time when little David routed the giant on the first round and when one could put a thousand and two ten the same to flight.

Providence stands by the man who stands by himself. He whose money is wisely spent in deeds of charity and kindness and benefactions gets it all back with compound interest.

No money is better spent than that which goes to secure or renew a Life Policy. Of him who thus directs it the old proverb says: "In a good spender God is treasurer."—Anon.

FROM BATH

A Woman Outraged The Fiend Arrested

BATH, July 18. On the night of June 28 Mrs. Mary Clay aged 17 years was outraged while she was found in a terrified and disorderly condition. Some of the revolting details of the affair have reached the ears of William A. Ray, a young man who was apprehended in this city and brought by Officer Kittridge. The girl is seriously ill from the effects of the outrage. It is feared that murder will result therefrom. Two preliminary examinations are in attendance. Miss Crosby formerly resided in Portland and her parents reside in Bath. Ray will be arraigned tomorrow and will probably be committed for trial at the August term of the Supreme Judicial Court.

A KENTUCKY TRAGEDY.

Three Men Killed and One Perhaps Fatally Wounded.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 19. Meagre particulars of a triple tragedy which occurred at Stanton, Ky., are just received here. The tragedy grew out of the revival of an old grudge between Town Marshal Perry Cooper and John Smith. Very few words were exchanged before Oakley fired on Smith. Before he could return the fire he received a shot gun and Nute Osborn, a friend of Smith's came up to take part, firing at Oakley, when he was himself shot just below the heart, dying himself an hour after. Henry Smith, a brother of John, was next shot twice, once in the head and in the breast under the heart. He died at nine last night.

The fight occurred in H. C. Hooker & Co's store and it does not appear at all clear who did the shooting, which was all done with pistols.

A man named McGuire was going between his house and the store with a loaded shot-gun when he was fired on by Oakley without effect. McGuire returned the fire, the shot taking effect in Oakley's right eye, neck and body. He was removed to the residence of Major Cassidy, where he lies in a critical condition.

All was quiet at a late hour last night. More trouble is expected, as both sides are well represented and full of fight.

You will confer with General Sheridan who has instructions of even date herewith from the War Department as to the adoption of measures best calculated to effect this order."

A telegram was also sent to Tomers and Lee, cattle men at Kansas City, detailing instructions given the inspector and concluding as follows: "You had a complete remedy. No acts of lawlessness such as have been resorted to, as the forcible and unauthorized detention of cattle will be tolerated."

LATER—The man found with his throat cut at Westfield this morning has recovered sufficiently to state that his name is Joseph Schuler, and that he belongs in Adams, Mass. He says he committed the act on Thursday and has laid on the bank ever since.

JOHN ROACH.

The Famous Shipbuilder Makes an Assignment for the Benefit of his Creditors

NEW YORK, July 18. John Roach, the shipbuilder, under the name of Roach & Sons made a general assignment this afternoon for the benefit of the firm's creditors, to George W. Quintard and George F. Weed. After providing for the payment of their employes, the firm make the following preferences: William Rowland, of New Brunswick, $62 217, a note of $20 000 payable to the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank, and to F. W. Gallaudet & Co for loans aggregating $40,000.

Mr Roach's Health—Troubled by the Dolphin Affair

The Tribune furnishes the following in regard to John Roach's assignment. "It is said by gentlemen thoroughly conversant with his affairs to be the precarious state of his health which has alarmed his friends of late. He is now 70 years of age and yet until recently has retained the vigor, ruddy complexion and bright eye which are the marked features in the man. Recently his physical powers have been failing. His friends observed this, and his sons Garret and Stephen Roach, kept an anxious watch on him. Mr Roach's trouble was heart disease and for that reason his sons have not allowed him out of their sight.

There is no doubt that the Dolphin matter has weighed heavily on his mind. In private, since the recent order regarding the Dolphin, he has dwelt with feeling on the fact that he had large interests at stake and also his reputation as a business man in great measure. He kept up a brave appearance and assumed a cheerful aspect which he did not feel.

To a Tribune reporter Mr Vanderpool said: "The only statement I can make is this: from all I can learn, and in my own judgment, not a creditor of John Roach will lose a cent by the present action."

Another Despatch.

CHESTER, July 18. Little if anything could be learned in this city concerning the assignment of John Roach. The shipyard was visited but, no such report had reached there. His son, John B. Roach, Secretary of the Delaware River Iron Shipbuilding and Engine Works, had left for New York early in the afternoon. The treasurer of the company had no information concerning the rumor and he doubted the truthfulness of the report. The 800 men in the yard received their weekly wages as usual and expect to go to work Monday morning. The reduction in force which has been going on for weeks has decreased the number just one-half. Those men were laid off to-night than for a long time.

The only unusual thing that took place at the yard to-day was the loading of the ship Comal, built for the Mallory line, with all her anchors, chains, etc., and towing her to New Jersey channel after 5 o'clock. It is rumored that the United States Marshal either took possession, or will do so at an early day, but this could not not be verified. Those in a position to know say that Mr Roach's credit was as good to-day as at any time; that he is not financially embarrassed, but is abundantly able to meet all his obligations. The cause of towing the Comal out in the stream is said to arise from some trouble between the Mallory Company and the wrecking company which refused the Guadalupe. Most of the machinery from the Guadalupe has been put in the Comal and wrecks are following it, hence the rumor in reference to the United States Marshal. The trouble, it is said, will be cleared in a few days and all go on as usual at the yard.

Depressing Effect of the Failure in Chester

CHESTER, Pa., July 18. The news of the failure of John Roach caused considerable excitement, where his solvency has never been questioned. Up to within a year ago his weekly pay roll was never less than $15 000, distributed among 1,500 men and boys. Now the pay roll is a little over $7 000 but this will be reduced to-morrow, for it is the intention to lay off about 400 men in the morning. Only enough workmen will be kept to finish the ship Comal, lying in New Jersey Channel. The shipyard is a separate corporation and was not included in the assignment.

The yard will be affected, however, and as Mr. Roach is a large stockholder in the Chester Rolling Mills, Blast Furnace and Combination Iron and Steel Co., located here, it is difficult to foretell the result on these places, each of which employs a great many men. Work on the cruisers Boston and Chicago and monitor Puritan will virtually be suspended and the heretofore busy yard will present a deserted and dull look. As this city depends largely on the shipyard and other enterprises in which Mr. Roach is interested, the outlook for the coming winter is very gloomy.

Secretary Whitney is Sorry, but Cannot Help It.

BOSTON, July 19. The Herald's Newport special gives the following as Secretary Whitney's reply to the question as to the probable effect of Mr. Roach's failure on the Government: Secretary Whitney said: "I do not think it will have any effect on the Government. I am very sorry for Mr. Roach. I am always sorry when a man falls into such difficulties. The Government has one vessel in his shipyard and two at New York building, but the amounts are nearly all paid on them. The affair is unfortunate, but I cannot help him."

NEW YORK.

Mr Roach and the Dolphin

NEW YORK, July 18. A Washington special to the Mail and Express says there is little doubt that Secretary Whitney will order the seizure of the Dolphin, in accordance with the suggestion of Attorney-General Garland, to secure the government from loss for money paid on her. This is what Mr. Roach wants. Mr. Roach will agree to the seizure and bring a suit for the balance due him. There is scarcely any doubt felt here that in any case the government will have to take the vessel, but not much more doubt but that Mr. Roach will recover his full payment.

Two Men Killed by the Cars.

Business Houses and Dwellings Burned

RISING SUN, Ind., July 18. Fire last night burned more than a dozen business houses and dwellings. Total loss $35,000.

Car Shop Burned—Loss $200,000

BOSTON, July 19. A destructive fire occurred at the New York and New England Railway car shops, in Norwood, this afternoon. The fire originated in the engine room and destroyed the main building, which was of brick, 350x76 feet, used as passenger and freight repair shop and for turning out all the woodwork used in construction. The flames also communicated to the brick building, 200x60 feet, used as a blacksmith shop, then the foundry buildings, both of which were burned. A long wooden structure used for a tin shop was partially destroyed. A great deal of valuable machinery was destroyed. In all about one half of the company's extensive works were ruined. But very little rolling stock was injured. The total loss is estimated at $200,000, probably fully insured.

GENERAL GRANT

The Heat of Friday Night Disturbs His Rest

MCGREGOR, July 18. Gen. Grant slept less than usual last night owing to the stifling closeness of the atmosphere. The patient was quiet, without pain, dozed the most of the time but did not enjoy a sound sleep until late, and although feeling fairly well he shows little weakness. This morning he left his room at 9 o'clock and went to sit on the veranda in the cool morning breeze. This morning the sick man is trying to make up for his bad night by dozing in his room.

Making up his Rest.

Gen. Grant has rested to-day, remaining quiet and indulging in a limited walk from the room to the piazza. He retired between 8 and 9 o'clock, and hoped, with the temperature at 60° and a fresh breeze sweeping the mountain, that he would sleep well to-night, although the condition as noted yesterday has not been overcome. The General is evidently weaker to-night than at any time the past week, and this is apparent in the volume of pulse, which is lighter to-night.

A Restful and Uneventful Day Sunday

MT. MCGREGOR, N. Y., July 19. Gen. Grant passed a very quiet night. His pulse this morning was 72 and fuller and stronger than yesterday. The benefits of a fair night's rest have been supplemented to-day by improved conditions, made possible by the cool clear weather. To day the General sat upon the piazza much of the time. His pulse during the day showed no change. He read the papers and altogether passed a restful and uneventful day.

Gen Grant retired at light o'clock. At midnight the patient's mental and physical condition seemed to be better than during the morning and Dr. Douglas anticipated a quiet night.

Liberal prizes will be offered for the following sports: Novelty life boat race, one hundred yard dash, three standing jumps, potato race, three-legged race and fat man's race. The entries should be made with the committee on sports on or before Monday, July 27th at 12 o'clock.

REFORM CLUB MEETING. Mr. C. A. Page presided at the temperance meeting at City Hall yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened by singing "Sound the high Praises." Rev. Mr. Busfield continued the devotional exercises. The President made the opening remarks and introduced Rev. Mr. Busfield who delivered an instructive and interesting address. Mr. Ames was the next speaker, and when he had finished the President introduced D. Faircr, of Hartford, Conn., who occupied the balance of the time in an able address, speaking principally of the effect of alcohol upon the human system. Messrs. Moody and Wadleigh and Misses Semple and Staples and Miss Goldthwaite organist furnished the music.

A SECOND FRACTURE. It will be remembered that in the winter Mr. John Farquhar, of Oldtown, roadmaster on the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, accidently broke his leg, by careful attention the limb became united perfectly enough to allow him to again assume his duties a few weeks ago. Friday night, however, while he was riding on the rear axle of a ligger, flying away from the horse, the animal started suddenly and threw him off on to his face and also breaking the same leg and in the identical place. Both bones are broken and it will require a much longer time for them to heal than before. This is certainly very hard luck, and Mr. Farquhar has the sympathy of all the employes of the road, and his friends.

A SINGULAR ACCIDENT. Saturday, while Mr. Royal, of Hucksport section foreman on the Bucksport branch of the Maine Central was riding over the road on a hand car in company with several other men, he suddenly dropped from his position to the ground. The car was stopped and the men went back, but Mr. Royal could only point downward at his body. On examination it was found that a bullet had struck an iron on the car, glanced and entered the lower part of his abdomen and passed upward a considerable distance. The shot was fired by some person in the woods. The man was taken to his home, and a physician probed for the bullet but was unable to secure it. The accident was singular out and it is believed that the result will not be fatal.

THE HANDEL EXCURSION. According to the present indications the party that will sail down river to-day on the steamer Katahdin will be an unusually large one. The sale of state rooms has been large and those not taken will be sold very quickly this morning. The managers have had distributed a very handsome lithograph of the Washington Monument, together with other famous structures. The excursion has been very well advertised, but the party that will participate will be as select as usual and the managers will endeavor to make all enjoy the occasion. The steamers by the Bangor Band and Andrews' Orchestra are very strong attractions and will be among the most pleasant features of the day. The boat will run sharply on time, leaving her wharf at 8 30 this morning and returning at 9 30 o'clock this evening.

A NOBLE WORK. Those of the Central Congregational sabbath School, present at the session yesterday, were greatly favored by an opportunity to listen to a brief address from Rev. Charles L. Brace, of New York, who with his wife, passed the Sabbath here en route for Moosehead Lake where he will take his vacation. Mr. Brace has, for a generation, been engaged in labors for the benefit of the degraded classes in New York, and is the founder of the "Children's Aid Society" an association widely known, organized for the purpose of transferring destitute and vagrant children to homes in the country, and which also provides lodgings, instruction, and other aid for poor boys and girls in the Metropolis. Not less than 4,000 children are thus annually rescued from homeless want and crime, and put in a way to become virtuous and useful members of society. Such a life-work, in its Christian purpose, and its immense results, is worthy of admiration from all who are interested in the welfare of the nation, and affords a bright instance of what may be accomplished by one unselfish and devoted man.

THE BICYCLISTS. Mr. F. A. Elwell's party of bicyclists arrived in this city Saturday morning and breakfasted at the Bangor House. They left on the 7 45 train for Moosehead Lake and will arrive in this city again Wednesday evening. Mr. O. B. Humphrey accompanied them as far as Dover. The following are the names and residences of the members of the party: M. B. Beck, Sanford Lawton, W. C. Marsh, D. E. Miller, Springfield; S. A. Butler, M. A. Gilbert, B. L. Marsh, E. J. Williams, Waltham; C. O. Batchelder, Lancaster, N. H.; [illegible] Carney, Frank A. Elwell, [illegible] Morrill, [illegible] Pelham, W. R. Fitcher, C. C. [illegible] W. Coe, Ware; [illegible] Cooper, [illegible] Rust, Meriden, Ct.; [illegible] Carter, W. A. Mc[illegible]arlan, G. S. [illegible] John, N. H.; [illegible] Fox, F. [illegible] Lesley, Lynn; C. A. [illegible] Portsmouth, N. H.; F. H. [illegible] H. Messer, Stoneham; J. W. and J. E. McLaughlin, Providence; R. [illegible] and R. L. Stewart, Roselle, N. J. [illegible] Lynn. On their return to this city Wednesday evening, the parade will be made through the following streets starting from the Bangor House promptly at seven o'clock: Up Union to Clinton, to Ohio, to Court, to Hammond, to Kenduskeag Bridge, to State, to Pearl, to counter-march, state to Forest avenue, to Somerset to Kenck, to Garland, to Broadway, to Tarratabacook, to French, to State, to Club headquarters.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION. The steamer Queen City will make an excursion to Bucksport this evening, leaving her wharf at 8 o'clock and running direct to Bucksport, arriving in season for the grand concert and ball to be given in Emery's Hall. This will be a very enjoyable excursion and the low price of the tickets, including the fine concert to be given by Andrews' Orchestra assisted by Miss Carrie Leavitt, Mr. A. C. Morton and Mr. R. B. Hall, should ensure a large company.

LETTER FROM MOOSEHEAD LAKE

The Lake in all its Grandeur—Departure of the Black Flies—The Season Fairly Opened—Arrival of Tourists—Improvements at West Cove and Kineo, Etcetera.

MOOSEHEAD LAKE, July 18th.

Never during the whole round of the seasons does the Lake region present greater attractions than at present to the true lover of nature. Every tree and shrub and tiny flower even is at its best—filled full of the new wine of the year, and overflowing with that wordless joy that finds expression in a thousand dainty, fantastic forms, hues and odors. If not, like the ancient Canaan, a land "overflowing with milk and honey," the Lake country at this season certainly overflows with something quite as agreeable to our modern taste, viz., strawberries and cream, of which the hungry stranger may eat his fill without the least fear of exhausting the supply of either. The mountains, decked in freshest green from top to toe, wear a welcoming smile that hints of unbounded hospitality on the part of these "earliest settlers," while the great Lake itself, with the summer sunshine on its bosom, laughs and dimples as innocently as a rustic belle in full holiday attire. If there is one bit of poetry in his nature one cannot but feel a thrill of joy in inspiration quickening his veins as he looks out upon the glorious landscape, grand and beautiful from stately mountain peaks to sunny valleys gay with daisies and buttercups, and great patches of purple clover and nodding grasses, almost ready for the scythe of the mower, who usually begins his work a week later here than in the more southerly parts of the State.

Even the wide worn highways, broad and dusty cease to be prosaic, when every step along their grassy sides brings one to a group of stately birches or maples whose great roots are daintily incrustated with ferns and velvet mosses, while in their leafy tops

"The little bird sits at his door in the sun,
Adit like the Modesens among the fees,
And tuts his illumined throat as he run
In the deluge of summer it receives."

At sunrise, at sunset, be it cloudy or bright, fair or foul, this region has charms peculiarly its own to win the most indifferent observer. The landscape, bound as it is by the everlasting hills, is never by any possibility, tame or monotonous. Spurwy Mountain, like Egypt's famous queen, governs men by change, for her majestic face is never twice the same, while Kineo—dark, stern browed herald, standing aloof and alone—finds himself so bedecked and transfigured by the tricksy mist spirits that he wears a kingly crown of cloudy scarf and bells with equal grace and complacency. Speaking of Kineo, that famous resort is, just now, at the height of its popularity, as one of the pleasantest most beautiful and comfortable of all the favorite summer resorts in the old Pine Tree State.

In its elegant and spacious hotel one may find every modern convenience and luxury that the most fastidious in desire, while a ten minutes walk from its doors will bring him into an isolation as complete, silence and solitude as profound as can be found in the very heart of the great dark forest that he sees stretching Canadaward, within whose untrodden depths lurks a charm that tempts the lover of untamed nature to venture his frail canoe amid turbulent rapids and rocky shallows for the sake of even a brief sojourn in some leafy lodge, that has need of neither bolts nor bars to keep out unwelcome intruders, so long as the camp fire burns brightly, and the squirrels—born foresters of our Maine woods—receive their fair share of the fragments. Boating and fishing upon the lake are, just now like charity, in one respect, they "never fail, and the queerest of all, to the uninitiated, is the fact that the genuine sportsman never seems to get discouraged however poor his luck may be. He will come back to the hotel at night, tired, hungry, and empty-handed, grumbling, most likely at his ill luck, which he is sure to lay to the weather, the locality, or perhaps to the guide. But with the first gleam of sunshine, he is up, bright and cheerful full of eager hopes and anticipations of a good day's sport and, to tell the truth this patient persistence rarely if ever, fails of its reward, in due season.

As the larva of the black fly is the best kind of "Bridgway's Food" for the infant trout, and indispensible to its well being during babyhood, it certainly behooves the sportsman, of all men, to be patient and humble under the inflictions of this pest that now, I am happy to say, is about taking its departure for regions unknown. More than a fortnight ago it was noticed that they had put on their grey travelling gaiters, a sure sign of an early start, and now, any bright morning, we may get up and find not one remaining. There are no camp followers in their train, when one goes they all go, and the odor of Jumbolino and oil of Pennyroyal disappears with them. The departure of this one drawback to the perfectness of this region is always coincident with the first real opening of summer travel in this direction. On Thursday we heard one of the long ones joyfully affirm that "black fly time was just about over at last."

On Friday morning the circus entered the town and pitched its tents in calm security within a stones throw of the lake, and in the afternoon a large party from Boston arrived by a special train, en route to Kineo. To-day the Bicycle Club is expected and the Raymond party on Monday. During the coming week the Maine Press Association intend to visit Kineo and another large excursion from Bar Harbor is reported toward the end of the week. Fly time is over, beyond a doubt.

Several important improvements have been made for the accommodation and convenience of travelers to and from the Lake this season. The grounds about the depot are being nicely graded, and a neat plank sidewalk extending from the restaurant to the wharf has been built by the railroad company, which, with the added convenience of a handsome verandah which has recently been placed over a portion of the wharf, makes the necessary walk from the cars to the boat easy and comfortable, let the weather be what it may. Mr. Walker is improving his restaurant at West Cove by putting on an addition for a kitchen, thus enlarging his dining room by throwing into it the space hitherto allotted to cooking purposes. A new attraction has also been added to the many that Kineo already possessed in the shape of a beautiful span of ponies, which, with a suitable carriage, are provided for the use of guests who prefer riding to walking in visiting the various points of interest in and about this charming resort.

In short, the whole Lake region is in its very best holiday trim—bright, breezy, full of life and beauty, and dull, indeed, must be he who fails to find in its manifold attractions something to charm and win him, for a brief space, at least, from the sordid aims and cares of everyday life in the world's great marts of business, fashion and pleasure.

The Methodist excursion of Brewer and Eddington came here on Friday and remained about three hours. They passed the time in visiting the fort and other antiquarian places. The citizens of Castine enjoy a quiet excursion of this kind, but objected to disorderly and rough crowds.

During the winter the sign of the Castine House was blown down, and Agricultural.

[illegible] Farmers have now begun to consult the probabilities in the morning paper and follow its directions. Good farmers do not practice having larger tracts than is absolutely necessary. There was work later than usual and wet weather delayed the work at times but grass was growing. On the whole and the crop was thrifty greatly increased and now the hay is [illegible] in the county prove in average if not more.

The hay crop in Aroostook county will be much larger than expected and all other counties in the State have wonderful improved since the beginning of this month and it is estimated by good judges that the crop throughout the State will equal that of last year. In New Hampshire the outlook is not so good and the condition of the crop in Vermont is still worse and it is now feared that the yield in the latter State will turn out less than in any one of the last twenty years, though recent rains have raised the hopes of the farmers and caused a marked improvement in the appearance of the grass. Under these circumstances farmers in Penobscot county and all the region are striking to secure the best crop in good condition and will succeed.

The potato bugs are not to be [illegible] whatever else is left undone. In a few days or weeks will get a start, and in days, let weather the luxury of the potato beetle will appear by millions, where, perhaps the previous day only a few dozen eggs were to be found and the [illegible] grub [illegible] the vines. It is for this reason that farmers growing several acres of potatoes need to employ a large force of help so that, in case of need, he can at and to bug [illegible] without neglecting the work. [illegible] along with Paris green and [illegible] advice. The [illegible] will wash off the poison if applied before the dews appear, and it is not [illegible] to the edible [illegible] if the crop and they [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] in the counties of New York are in a satisfactory condition. Many of the whole fields promise fifty or half to two-thirds of an average yet there are others that will not be [illegible] enough to pay the cost of harvesting. Corn is backward and in [illegible] result [illegible] from cutworms. In some sections of the State the pipe [illegible] promising [illegible] [illegible] the hoeing given [illegible] that which was [illegible] is kingbird.

Illustrating the [illegible] depression in agricultural [illegible] the [illegible] consequence [illegible] the road [illegible] farm in North Wilkesboro Engl. [illegible] estate in North Wilkesboro [illegible] offered for sale last month at [illegible] there was [illegible] only ten years ago this property could have been sold at $240,000. It is evident that the boundless prairie of America and the cheap land of Australia are [illegible] competition with the hitherto high priced lands of Great Britain.

Butter in Boston and New York has [illegible] of the butter [illegible] being put away in cold storage and in this manner [illegible] in fairly [illegible] [illegible] storage [illegible] supplies to be filled very soon [illegible] the [illegible] spring [illegible] and prices [illegible] receipts [illegible] the [illegible] in the [illegible] demand for [illegible] of butter. It is only [illegible] which are purchased for [illegible] Again at most [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of butter are [illegible] the public taste is more fastidious with [illegible] demand for inferior [illegible]

We are told that the milk folk [illegible] in the west and the [illegible] [illegible] that the good [illegible] milk from all the [illegible] than does the [illegible] [illegible] filled [illegible] and hard lumps [illegible] the cloth. There is probably enough rain fall or artificial [illegible] to produce a crop if none were wasted by running off or by the suction of weeds. There is too much rain fall on [illegible] and the weed [illegible] unless to remove the supply taking off little of value and really increasing fertility by depositing in the soil mineral elements which rain water always contains.

The meeting at Washington, under the [illegible] of the Department of Agriculture, of the delegates from agricultural colleges and experiment stations, resulted in [illegible] including the plan of Commissioner Colman for introducing agricultural farms connected with colleges and experiment stations [illegible] valuable plants and trees, adapted to [illegible] from the various parts of the world. Also it was resolved that the commissioner be [illegible] to secure the establishment of a signal service station at every agricultural college under national endowment. It was resolved that the committee [illegible] the compilation and publication of a periodical bulletin of agricultural progress not less than quarterly with an annual report to congress thereon and that Congress be petitioned to provide the necessary funds to carry this scheme into effect in a popular form in connection with the annual provision for the Department of Agriculture. A number of interesting papers on various farm topics were presented, which will probably be published in the near future.

The city boarder is finding his way to the country, and the change is very beneficial for all parties concerned. Both city and country residents need to be disabused of some erroneous ideas respecting each other. Both have received much light on the subject and the difference between the two is gradually growing less. Country people in these times are apt to be as well informed on affairs at home and abroad as their city visitors. Any attempts on the part of the latter to air a supposed superiority will pretty surely meet deserved rebuke. On the other hand, many country people need to be disabused of the idea that their city visitors at home lead a butterfly sort of existence. Work in cities is perhaps more exhaustive than that in the country, for in a vast majority of cases it includes far more worry, which is more exhausting than either mental or physical exertion. Yet as country life approaches the conditions of city life, the worry is apt to increase, and the progressive farmer will often look retrospectively with regret at the heavier manual toil, but smaller mental strain, which his father and grandfather lived under.

Eastern farmers who have practised breaking up their land which bears light grass, applying well-rotted manure to the surface, sowing to Hungarian grass and seeding down, report very satisfactory results. A good crop of Hungarian is obtained which, when cut at the light stage and properly cured, makes excellent fodder. Several years afterwards land so treated yields a good crop of hay without the worthy of trial by every farmer. When the land is suitable for producing clover, a good proportion of the seed should be used in laying down. An application of gypsum the following spring will give a large increased yield of clover in most soils and is the cheapest fertilizer that can be used.—Ploughman.

The Department of Agriculture reports the month of June as favorable to the development of winter wheat. The general average is advanced from sixty-two to sixty-five. The winter wheat region which does not include the Pacific slope produces about 215,000,000 bushels. The condition of spring wheat on the [illegible] though the average has been [illegible] slightly, the average being nearly [illegible] six. The indications now point to a yield of at least 18,000,000 bushels, thus making an aggregate of wheat of 363,000,000 bushels. The immense crop area of last year has apparently been increased at least six per cent, or at least 4,000,000 acres, making an aggregate not under [illegible] 74,000,000 acres. The largest increase is in the Missouri Valley. The condition of corpus is higher than in any year since 1880 except the first. It averages ninety-four against ninety-six in 1884. It is the highest in the South and higher on the Atlantic coast than in the West. The average of winter rye has not used [illegible] eighty-three to eighty seven since the first of June. The general average for oats is ninety-seven against [illegible] ninety-seven in June. Oats have since [illegible] with all the [illegible] the hopeful [illegible] of the month. The condition of barley averages ninety-two.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous, or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the clouded poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. The great
